

Dubrovnik

Through Days of Endless Sun
we bathe in the blue green sea.

Evening comes, rose clouds on towers,
walls rooted in darkening rock.

We enter the village arch where jazz and voices flow like sweet water
over polished stone streets.

Bells toll the morning hour.

Rain falls now on the quiet harbor
and ships sail into dawn light.